

Maddie Godfrey

TINY HOUSE FOR SALE: PERFECT FIT FOR YOU AND YOUR MUSE

welcome, come in. the important thing about tiny houses is you must remember to close unnecessary doors. see here – how the kitchen wall becomes a concealed cupboard. there’s so much storage beneath the sustainably sourced ivory sink! but if you leave that bathroom door ajar, the hallway becomes an obstacle course of impossibilities. the owner? an architect, skilled at squeezing stories into small spaces. through that archway you’ll find the compostable couch. duck! – fuck. sorry, the previous muse was significantly shorter than you. slumped shoulders, perhaps. her head bowed like permanent prayer. more about the architect? a minimalist. likes his coffee black and his women quiet – sorry! nothing important, just mumbling to myself. that’s right! this is that famous house from that famous video! see how the bed folds down like a sarcophagus? how the stairs are shaped like sharpened tongues? and the garden is located on the roof, where you can’t water it without risking yourself. all these tiny details, they really paint a persona onto the pine ceilings. isn’t it a bargain? we – they – just need a quick sale. you must remember to close unnecessary doors. otherwise you can’t esca – I mean, stand up straight.